

San Bruno Walk 'n Bike Plan

For a more pedestrian- and bike-friendly San Bruno

The City of San Bruno recently kicked off a project called the San Bruno Walk 'n Bike Plan. The objective of the plan is to make walking and biking in San Bruno safer and easier. Most importantly, the plan will:

- Identify the key needs and concerns of pedestrians and cyclists in the city;
- Designate the top priority areas for pedestrians and a city-wide network of bikeways; and
- Recommend a set of specific, realistic, high-priority pedestrian and bicycle improvements throughout the city for the next ten years.

The planning process

The planning process for the San Bruno Walk 'n Bike Plan launched in July 2015. The process will last approximately 10 months, concluding in April 2016. The process will consist of four main tasks, or phases:

- Existing conditions (July–August 2015): Initially, we will compile an inventory of local conditions such as collision and commute data; key facilities and destinations for pedestrians and cyclists; related planning efforts; and institutional policies and practices that impact walking and biking.
- Needs assessment (September–October 2015): During this task we will gather information from the public on the challenges and obstacles to walking and biking in San Bruno and on specific problem areas and locations. We will also collect the public's ideas and suggestions for improving conditions.
- Plan preparation (November 2015–January 2016): We will prepare a draft version of the plan, documenting the results of the existing conditions inventory and of the needs assessment and, more importantly, outlining a ten-year work plan of high-priority projects that respond closely to the community's needs.
- Plan review and adoption (February–April 2016): Lastly, the draft plan will be reviewed and commented on by the public and key stakeholders, ultimately to be adopted by the San Bruno City Council.
